ZONE COVERS NEW BRAUNFELS AND AUSTIN

'EXCEPTIONAL' DROUGHT GRIPS HEART OF TEXAS

Dry area could spread to take in S.A.

An area centered over Hays County and reaching to Austin and New Braunfels was classified by federal weather-watchers Thursday as in "exceptional" drought — the worst category.

With a large part of South-Central Texas in extreme drought — the next-to-worst category — an little prospect for significant rainfall, forecasters say they expect see an expansion of the areas with the exceptional label.
