Belen Padilla sings with Mariachi Juvenil Halcon from Zapata, which won first place on the elementary/middle school category.

Mariachi winners
South Texas students receive musical awards
A San Marcos mariachi singer was the big winner at the 15th Annual Mariachi Vargas Extravaganza.
Celeste Curiel, a student at Texas State University, was named the “Best Mariachi Vocalist in the U.S.”
Other first-place winners include: Mariachi Juvenil de UTPA of University of Texas Pan American in the college/university category; Mariachi Cotuleño of Cotulla High School in the high school category, and Mariachi Juvenil Halcon of Zapata Middle School in the elementary/middle school category. San Antonio singer Angelica Vargas, of Canyon Ridge Elementary School, took first place in the elementary vocalist competition.
Each year, the festival names the best student mariachi performers with the top winners opening for the world-famous Mariachi Vargas de Tecalitlan. — MR
